A Swiss educational reformer and the chief founder of modern pedagogy. He was, with the exception of FROEBEL, the greatest educational reformer since the time of the Revival of Learning, realizing that social reform must come through education, he early allied himself with the reformers of the day. His principles were elaborated and carried out, and formed the basis of the Educational movement of the 19th Cen. In 1801 he gave a summary of his ideas in education in the book "Wie bestreut I die Kinder lehrst" (How should teachers be children? Pedagogue's method is to proceed from the easier to the more difficult) to begin with observation and then pass to consequences and from consequences to
